MYSTERY INVOLVED IN MONESSEN SHOOTING; MAN IS DYING

ROAD IMPROVEMENT IS BEING HELD UP

Mystery Connected With Delay of Construction of Stockdale - Coal Center Highway, Which Remains Unsurveyed

SOMEONE "PASSING BUCK"

Charleroi, Speers, Stockdale, Roscoe And Elco Men Pass Over Routes Yesterday, Following Which Meeting Is Held, Resolution Passed

What or who is holding up the construction of the Stockdale-Coal Center road is a question that is bothering the residents of the various towns just at present, and as near as can be determined some person is "passing the buck." Possibly no other section of road in this end of the state has caused so much agitation. Promises have been made of speedy construction by every agency that has anything to do with highway building in Pennsylvania and yet the route from Stockdale to Elco remains unsurveyed.

For the purpose of getting first-hand information on the conditions, possibly 100 persons from Charleroi, Speers, Stockdale, Roscoe and Elco went over the proposed routes yesterday afternoon. They were met at the end of the concrete road at Stockdale by the County Commissioners and County Engineer, as well as a representative of the State Highway department and walked from there over the old county road to Elco. After making the trip, a meeting was held at which the various phases of the highway were discussed with the result that a resolution was passed urging the State Highway department to construct the road at once on the route of the old county road from Stockdale to Elco. This petition will be passed by the councils of all the boroughs and sent to the Highway department at Harrisburg.

From what could be learned yesterday the principal reason for holding up the construction or survey of the road, is the fact that it is not feasible to build the highway along the old route, it being claimed that the cost of upkeep would be more than the borough could stand, and that the damages which would be incurred on another proposed route would be even greater. However, those who went over the route yesterday do not agree with the department as to the excessive cost of upkeep on the old route. Members of council from the different boroughs who were with the delegation yesterday stated that they knew that the taxpayers would be willing to asume the upkeep of the road on the old route, but as to the new one, it would not be accepted by them

County Commissioner James Walker informed the delegation that Washington county was ready and willing to do its part in building the road. He stated that the money for this purpose had been set aside and that it was absolutely up to the State Highway department to go ahead, and that when they did so they would find Washington county ready with its part of the expense.

LOVE AFFAIR MAY BE BASIS OF A TRAGEDY

Howard Campbell, aged 26, colored, is dying in the Memorial hospital, Monongahela, with a bullet wound in his chest, and Willie Morgan, also colored, aged 21, charged with the shooting, has made his escape. The shooting took place this morning at [illegible] o'clock at the Campbell home, 1226 Highland avenue, Monessen, where Willie Morgan is a boarder. Police investigating are unable to get many details of the affair, owing to the fact that Campbell is unconscious.

According to Mrs. Campbell, wife of the dying man, the shooting was accidental Mrs. Campbell averred that for the past two days the men have had the revolver, a 32 calibre Spanish weapon, around the house, and this morning, Morgan picked it up and pointed it at Campbell, firing it by accident. However, the police do not believe this story, and are making an investigation of the missing man, in order to hold him pending the development of Campbell's condition. The affair has the appearance of a triangular love affair.

Dr. Jesse Griffiths of Monessen was called to attend the wounded man, and ordered him taken to the hospital, after he had administered first aid. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

DECLARE CHICAGO YOUTHS MUST PAY PENALTY

Chicago, July 18.—"Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb must die on the gallows or justice will be defeated," State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe declared today in answer to announcement by the defense that it will make every effort to prove the confessed slayers of 14-year-old Robert Franks, are insane.

"We will place on the witness stand four of the nation's foremost alienists, all of whom will testify, rightfully, that these boys are sane. With the positive testimony, nothing short of the gallows for the killers will satisfy the state," he said.

DELAY AWARD OF BRIDGE CONTRACT

ELECTRIC WIRE USED BY GIRL TO MAKE ESCAPE

Pittsburgh, July 18.—Sliding down [illegible] from the second-story window of the Frankstown Avenue police station, Betty Faust, 19, a white girl, of East Liberty, avoided arraignment with Jacob Stewart, colored, on a charge of having stolen an automobile.

Running down an alley, the girl [illegible] entered an auto occupied by two men, and escaped.

Stewart was said to have accompanied the girl to Greensburg, after loaning her his license plates, but when they attempted to put the car in a public garage, they were questioned. Both started back to Pittsburgh until stopped and picked up on the road.

Rebuilding of Bridge at Belle Vernon Over Speers Run—Five Bids, All Within a Range of $12,000, Are Opened

WHY CONTRACT NOT LET

Discovered That Owing to the Close Proximity of Structure to the Monongahela River, It Would Be Necessary to Excavate

At a joint meeting of the commissioners of Fayette and Westmoreland counties this week at Uniontown, bids were received and opened for the rebuilding of the bridge at Belle Vernon over Speers run.

This bridge is to be constructed of steel and reinforced concrete, and will be of arch design. It will be the connecting link between the two counties on the proposed improved highway along the river between Monessen and Belle Vernon. Engineers are now at work on the road staking out the route and establishing the grades and the contractor will soon be on the job.

Five bids, all within a range of $12,000, were opened at the meeting in Uniontown, but no contract was given, as the Westmoreland County commissioners, after the advertisement for bids had been made, investigated the proposed site and discovered that owing to the close proximity of the structure to the Monongahela river, instead of a three-foot abutment as advertised, it would be necessary to excavate for a distance of at least 16 feet and that this would entail an additional cost of $9,000.

The bids which were received this week and opened will be accepted and as soon as proper adjustment can be made, the contract will be let and labor on the structure as well as on the highway, will be rushed to completion.

IMPROVING TWO RIVER HIGHWAYS

The Penn-Pitt Construction company of Pittsburgh is making considerable headway with the repairing and improving of the "Hanging Boulevard" and the Monongahela-Elizabeth pike.

Considerable blasting is being done in order to install retaining walls of rock which is secured from the overhanging hillside, the cause of expensive and dangerous slides on this road for several years. Debris which is brought down from the hillside by heavy dynamite blasts is being removed in trucks to a point below Mongah mine where it will be used for grading later when work is started below the boulevard. When the company has completed the construction of several long retaining walls, work will be started in building [illegible] ports under the highway and widening the road where it has been necessary to construct the walls where slides are frequent. The J. R. Rothie Construction company of Elizabeth, successful bidders for construction of the stretch of highway from Axleton to a point near Sunnyside hollow on the opposite side of the river from Monongahela, has practically all subgrading completed and concrete is being laid on the Monongahela end of the [illegible] State Highway, inspectors on this job report good progress by the construction company in the road building project but expect delays later when a number of culverts and sewers must be built in order to drain water from the river hill which also borders on this road along its entire course. This stretch of highway is a portion of the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean highway which passes through Monongahela.

Deputy Sheriff Is Fatally Shot By Prisoners

Huntingdon, Pa, July 18.—Meyer Lewin, a deputy sheriff of Allegheny county, was probably fatally shot in a terrific battle with two prisoners he was taking from the Western penitentiary at Pittsburgh to the state hospital for the insane at Fairview, Wayne county, on a Pennsylvania train near here today.

Lewin is at the Blair hospital, here, in a critical condition, while Deputy Sheriff H. B. Furlong, another guard, is suffering with eye-burn received when one prisoner hurled red pepper in his face.

The prisoners, Walter Clark, 25, and Andrew Jackson, 25, the latter a negro, serving terms for robbery, both left Pittsburgh last night in [illegible] Lewin and Furlong.

The attempt of the prisoners to escape is believed the result of a plot hatched at the Western Penitentiary, the scene of the fatal riot about six months ago.

In the fight, Clark escaped from the moving train still wearing his arm and leg shackles. He had been attached to Jackson, which were partly removed in order to go to the wash room.

When the train reached Huntingdon, Furlong and Lewin were taken to the hospital, while a posse was organized to search for Clark. Two miles from the railroad station the woods, sawing at his [illegible] Clark was captured.

The statement of claim sets forth that on February 17, 1923, each defendant subscribed for 100 shares of the capital stock of the defendant company at $100 per share, the statement each defendant has paid $7,500 of this amount.

Swissvale Plays Here Tomorrow, Game Being Called For 3:30 O'Clock

Manager D. Cleve Mathers will have an aggregation which we believe has never appeared on the Charleroi Baseball grounds tomorrow, in the Swissvale club, one of the leading baseball teams of the Greater Pittsburgh district. Time of the contest is 3:30 o'clock.

The Swissvale aggregation is known only by reputation here. Its record shows that it has met and defeated many of the leading clubs of this section of country; and the locals have their task cut out to beat them.

Manager Mathers said this morning that Beatty, who has had a week's rest and should be in good form, will be in the box for Charleroi with the new catcher, Ringgle, receiving his delivery. Ringgle seems to be a good backstop, though rather heavy on his feet. He was formerly a member of the Bradley Eagles, and is a good hitter. The new second baseman will be here again, and Anderson will be seen at his old position in center. The balance of the club will remain as heretofore.

Traynor's Homer Spells Defeat For The New York Giants

Harold Pie Traynor put the Pie in Pirates yesterday when he slew the Giants single-handed by punching the pill through center field for a home run when one was out in the thirteenth inning of a spectacular slab duel between John Dewey Morrison and Hugh McQuillan, a pair of right handed pitchers who are recognized as stars in the Heydler loop. The final count was 4-3 and the brief but exhilarating finish was hailed with glee by 14,000 cash customers.

Morrison had the better of the argument so far as effective hurling was concerned and while the enemy sneaked two hits into the records on two occasions, the Kentucky jughandler limited the safeties to nine. Five of these were delivered after two had been retired and another came with one down. The Buccaneers bunched three blows in the third round and three more in the fifth, but Lady Luck frowned upon them in both instances and they didn't score.

McQuillan was helped by the characteristic speed of the Giants in fielding and while Travis Jackson made the only official error of the afternoon when he fumbled Hazen Cuyler's hopped with two men down in the opening chapter, this boot did no harm. Each of the rival moundsmen fanned three batters. McQuillan issued three passes while Morrison only handed out one free ticket. The Corsairs made 13 hits.

JEFF PFEFFER JOINS PIRATE PITCHING CREW

Big Eddie Pfeffer, veteran right-handed pitcher, has just been added to the Pirate hurling staff, and Dave Alley, recruit catcher and infielder, has been shipped to the minors for further experience. Pfeffer has been requested to report to Manager Bill McKechnie at once. Alley departed last night for his new post in Texas. He goes to the Wichita Falls club under optional agreement.

Edward Joseph Pfeffer, who like all members of the Pfeffer family, goes by the nickname of "Jeff," was obtained from the St. Louis Nationals over the waiver route. The Cardinals yesterday arose from last place to sixth, but they have been floundering at the bottom of the heap for some time, and while they were at the tail end of the procession, Branch Rickey apparently decided to unload a few of his high-priced hirelings. He asked for waivers on several players recently.

Decides on Best Life Insurance.

"Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I took ... of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

COBB TO QUIT GAME AS A REGULAR PLAYER

Ty Cobb, in an interview at Boston yesterday declared the present season is to be his last as a regular of the Detroit team, upon which he has played center field for the past 21 years. "I'm done after this season," he declared with emphatic gestures, "whether anyone likes it or not. I'm done as a regular. I may be a bench manager or I may not, that's up to the club owner. That depends, I presume upon my being able to find a suitable player to take my place but at any rate I'm done as a regular ball player.

"I have gotten a lot out of baseball in the last 20 years" says the Georgian, who is recognized as the greatest player who ever stepped into baseball shoes. "I have never been seriously injured or ill, but the drive for second place in the league last year took a great deal out of me and convinced me that this year must be my last as a regular player. The best interests of my health requires that. The strain is beginning to tell on me and it would be foolish to attempt to prolong my days as a player beyond my strength."

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear son, Carson Montgomery, who died one year ago today, July 18, 1923.

We had a little treasure once,
He was our joy and pride;
We loved him, ah, perhaps too well
For soon he slept and died.
All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever passed away.
Sadly missed by Father, Mother, and Sisters, and all who knew him.

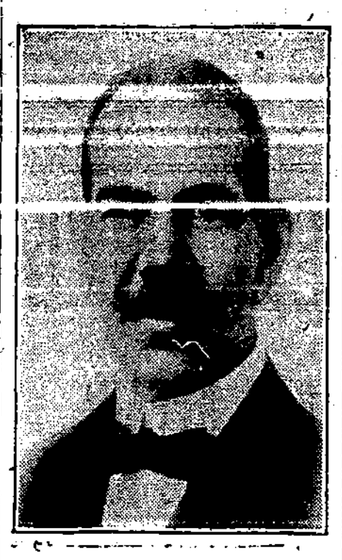
SAMUEL W. GRAFFLIN



to lecture at CHAUTAUQUA

Week July 28 to August 2.

Samuel W. Grafflin of New York City, who appears here on the fourth night of the coming Chautauqua program, is known as one of the most effective speakers in the country today. He is an "Abe Lincoln" type of man, long rugged physique, splendid intellect, a good supply of humor, and above all has a character message that every red-blooded man likes to hear.

For sixteen years in the milling and building material business, two years in the old Merchants service. He made seven trading voyages in the West Indies and down the Spanish Main. He was captain of a vessel before eighteen years of age. For two and one-half years he was special religious writer for the "Washington Star." For five years social secretary and welfare director of the Ward Baking Company, through their entire system, and, since the beginning of the World War, religious and industrial director of the West Side Y. M. C. A., the largest "Y" in the world. This is the record of Dr. Grafflin, all of which has contributed to make him an eminent speaker and one well qualified to deliver this splendid message.

Dr. Grafflin's subject at Chautauqua will be "Keeping America Strong," a strong challenge for decency, clean living, and 100 per cent Americanism in a race of real old-fashioned, God fearing people. We are the only country on earth not broke and in trouble and to maintain our present strong position is a challenge for all American citizens.

Dr. Grafflin is in great demand today as one of the country's most popular speakers for special occasion. We are therefore to be considered quite fortunate in having him on our Chautauqua program.

The president of the New York State Bankers Association says of Dr. Grafflin, "He was so well received that the audience practically demanded another meeting and we held a special meeting in order that our delegates might have the opportunity of hearing Dr. Grafflin a second time."

It is predicted that Dr. Grafflin's reception at Chautauqua will be just as enthusiastic as it has been in so many other places. Do not fail to hear him on the fourth night.

Tricks to Circumvent Police Photographers Futile.

New York.—A photograph studio, the largest and most up-to-date in the world, with a clientele of more than 50,000 persons and electrical equipment for developing photographs with lightning rapidity, has become one of the most important adjuncts of the New York police department.

Tricks of criminals to circumvent police photographers have become so futile that the old-time requirement that four detectives hold a prisoner for a pose is no longer necessary. The only delay nowadays is caused by vain women who powder and rouge or by "sheiks" who slick their hair.

Paris police not long ago sent over here a photograph of a man named "Hussey." New York police immediately recognized the portrait as that of the notorious "Dapper Dan Collins," despite the fact that when photographed in Paris he had thrust his head forward to give a distorted image.

The so-called "Diamond bank robbery," in which two bank messengers were shot to death by a gang of holdup men, was solved with the aid of the [illegible] known, and within five hours 4,000 copies of his picture were sent to police in all parts of the country. Fingerprints accompanied the portraits. A few days later Barlow M. Diamond, one of the gang, was recognized and caught in Cleveland.

But even more striking was the case of a trusted bookkeeper who disappeared when his accounts were found to be $20,000 short. Police sent his portrait broadcast.

Three months later, in an obscure western town, the fugitive was recognized and arrested by the town's lone motorcycle policeman.

Grant's St. Louis Home Will Be Made Memorial

St. Louis, Mo.—Dilapidated, its shutters nailed tight, its walls spattered with glaring signs, such is the present condition of the quaint red brick building here in which President Grant spent several happy years of his life.

In this building the great military leader, then a lieutenant, married Miss Julia T. Dent in 1848, and here he lived for several years following his graduation from West Point, when assigned to Jefferson barracks.

Here is planned a shrine to St. Louis' son, a home for mementos of his life and a headquarters for patriotic societies and organizations that care to use it.

Solicitation of relics of pre-Civil-war days and later years, which will remind visitors of Grant's greatness, already has begun.

The property, acquired by John H. Gundlach of St. Louis, president of the Grant Dent Memorial association, was turned over by him to the association and a campaign has been launched to raise $10,000 that the old house may be restored.

Jills Outnumber Jacks by 2,000,000 in England

London.—It is well known that there is a heavy majority of the fair sex in this country—an excess of nearly 2,000,000 was revealed by the census of 1921—but little, if anything, is known as to the distribution of this surplus, says the Daily Mail. In Seaton, in Devon, there were only 844 males to 1,451 females, or over 17 of the latter to 10 of the former. At Bexhill there were 12,853 females to only 7,510 males.

But there were places where the masculine superiority in numbers was almost equally pronounced. Tilbury had only 3,651 females to 5,950 males, so that for every ten Jills there were no fewer than sixteen Jacks, while Cheriton, in Kent, had 4,260 males and only 2,734 females.

Sussex was the county with the highest proportion of females, there being 1,274 of them for every 1,000 males, while Monmouth, at the other end of the scale, had only 940 to 1,000 males.

Charon Runs Ferry in Valley of Tennessee

Courtland, Miss.—Charon has been found. His name is John Schofield. The River Styx, in this case, is Coney Forks at the foot of the Tennessee mountains far from the towns and cities.

Few roads have been cut through the mountains and the sparsely settled country provided mainly horseback trails. The cemetery of the county is some ten miles from the center of population on a plateau girdled by towering hills.

"Uncle John," as Mr. Schofield is best known, holds two flat bottom boats lashed together, in readiness for the last journey of his neighbors. On the bottom of one boat rests the coffin and in the other the boatman stands and guides the twin craft down the fast-running stream. The funeral party follows on foot along the banks.

Uncle John also furnishes the coffins. They are hand-made and hand-polished and are highly prized by bereaved families.

He also is a bee raiser. His surplus of honey is stored in his surplus coffins.

Your Daughter's Health

There is no longer any excuse for mothers allowing their daughters (or sons) to become afflicted with Goiter. Medical science has discovered the cause of simple Goiter—it's a deficiency of Iodine in the food, causing the thyroid gland to become enlarged—and it has been demonstrated that this condition can be prevented merely by using table salt containing Iodine instead of ordinary salt.

Mulkey's is the ORIGINAL Iodine Salt distributed through the grocery trade, for the prevention of Simple Goiter

Be sure the name MULKEY'S is on the Iodine Salt you buy. It's pure, refined, free-running salt, for cooking and table use, and it contains the right amount of Iodine; just as we were asked to put it up as a public health measure.

APPRECIATING THE HOSPITAL.

The accident of a week ago Saturday has brought the value of the Brownsville General Hospital home in a way that some folks never expected.

After the accident, seventeen of the victims were taken to the hospital for treatment. While it is true two of them died, several of the more seriously injured, still in the hospital, would have also died, in all probability, if it had been necessary to move them long distances for hospital treatment.

Those who have experienced the value of the hospital know what it has done for them and can vision its service to the community as they never have. Their friends have been made acquainted with its usefulness.

It is for just such emergencies that the Brownsville General Hospital exists. It is to have it ready at all times to relieve those in need of its kindly offices that many of the people of Brownsville give of their means each year.

The hospital is constantly expanding its realm of influence. More and more people are being ministered to and the demands upon it are constantly increasing. Unfortunately, its means for pursuing the work for which it has been established have not enlarged in proportion to its work.

Those who contribute to the hospital's work should remember this fact when they come to make their contributions. Those who have never been contributors should consider how much more comfortable they will be, if an accident should befall them, to go to the hospital, knowing that their gifts have helped make possible the service they anticipate.—The Brownsville Telegraph.

Buried Chinese City Place of Importance

The remains of an ancient Chinese city, the walls of which, before it was destroyed by China's first emperor more than 2,000 years ago, seemingly inclosed more territory than is within the spacious walls of Peking, lies beneath three or four feet of earth about fifty miles south of Peking, awaiting the archeologists, writes the Japan Advertiser.

About 100 years after Alexander the Great conquered Egypt, or late in the Second century B. C, there arose a king in the then comparatively small China who compared favorably with Alexander in conquests and empire building and whose empire lasted almost until the present day. This was Ch'in Shih Huang, or Shih Huang-Ti ("the first emperor") whose rule, ending in 109 B. C., marks the close of the feudal period and the beginning of the empire in Chinese history.

Shih Huang-Ti subdued the feudal princes, built the famed great Chinese wall and successfully defended the country against the Tartars from the north, standardized money, transportation, writing and other things which aided centralization and destroyed as much of the ancient classics and traditions as possible, with the idea that the history of the Chinese empire should begin with his reign.

PRACTICAL USES OF WEATHER FORECASTS

Save Merchant and Stockman From Losses.

Washington.—One product of the government which is gaining increasing use in the commercial world is the weather forecast. Everyone is familiar with the laconic sentences which appear in all newspapers forecasting the weather for the following day. These forecasts, by the way, now have reached a mark of more than 80 per cent accuracy. In earlier days of meteorology the weather man's predictions used to be laughed at, but in nearly nine cases out of ten nowadays he is right. The brief daily notices represent by no means the full product of the United States weather bureau. It makes many other calculations on weather subjects which are available to anyone upon application.

When one speaks of weather in most parts of the United States, the idea of rain is probably the first mental reaction. To show how this idea has been commercialized one may read the experience of a large umbrella dealer. He had been in the habit of ordering large consignments of umbrellas from the manufacturers in the autumn because he was under the general impression that more rain was [illegible] season.

Then it occurred to him to approach the matter scientifically and he got in touch with the weather bureau. He was furnished with charts showing the usual distribution of precipitation in his part of the country. After studying these, he worked out a chart which proved an efficient guide to the amount of rain which would fall in the various months of the year. On the basis of this chart he placed orders for umbrellas to be delivered month by month in quantities proportionate to the expected rainfall. The system worked perfectly. He was never overstocked and never sold entirely out.

When to Buy Lambs.

A western sheep raiser furnishes another interesting example. He had suffered losses by purchasing young lambs and having them killed by adverse weather conditions. After studying weather charts extending over long periods, he was able to make a calculation showing the earliest date in the spring at which it would be safe to buy lambs. There was only about a week's difference in his time of purchase under the new system, but it turned his losses into profits.

Architects and builders, especially in regions where snow falls, are more and more consulting weather charts as a guide to the construction of roofs. Snow is very heavy. The whole nation remembers how the roof of the Knickerbocker theater in Washington collapsed two years ago after an unusually heavy snowstorm, killing scores of people. By consulting the weather charts the architect can determine what stresses the roof he is planning will be subjected to. He then plans to take care of the maximum load, leaving in addition a coefficient of safety.

The weight of snow resulted in a curious dispute in the West some time ago. A flock of sheep was purchased on the basis of so much a pound. The sheep were run onto scales out of doors and weighed. Upon delivery the buyer found that the sheep were very much underweight. He had paid for several hundred pounds more than he received and put in a claim for the missing sheep. Investigation developed that when the sheep were weighed a heavy snow was falling and each sheep carried a coverlet of snow. The purchaser had bought both sheep and snow by the pound. Of course, the snow was gone when the sheep were delivered.

Evidence in a Lawsuit.

An important lawsuit is pending in the state of Utah in which the weather bureau is furnishing material evidence. A mining company opened up a subterranean stream of water and, as water is valuable in that arid section, immediately made use of it. A regular surface stream nearby simultaneously diminished its flow.

Irrigation projects in the vicinity and power companies set up a claim that the mining company had illegally diverted the water from the surface stream by tapping its underground sources. The mining company is seeking to show by weather record that the diminution of the flow of the surface stream was due to a long continued spell of dry weather.

How the weather records can be used in personal matters is revealed in the case of a brand new limousine which was overturned on an open road. It was insured and a claim was entered on the ground that the machine had been overturned and wrecked by the wind in the course of a storm. The weather records were consulted by the insurance company and it was shown that the highest wind pressure in the state was but one-half the pressure against the side of the car that it was admitted to have carried on its tires. Bad driving and not the wind, it was shown, caused the damage.

Almost innumerable cases of practical use of weather records are on file with the weather bureau and it is expected that increasingly frequent use will be made of the bureau as the commercial world learns the value of the data available.

Zebra Mongoose Has Almost Human Speech

One of the most wonderful attributes of zebra mongooses is their copia verborum. They dispose of so many different sounds, uttered in so great a variety of intonations, and with such convincing expressiveness, of joy, of sorrow, of expectation, of longing, of desire, of surprise of anxiety and fear that it amounts to a language.

Unlike any other mammals known to me, they converse at a distance, even when they are out of sight of one another, as, for instance, when they happen to be in two different rooms.

They often talk in their sleep, and Rikki-Tikki (the writer's male mongoose) from time to time, gave vent, while sound asleep, to an endless lament, a series of long drawn though not unharmonious wails in a rising and falling cadence, expressive of heartrending sorrow and distress, painful to listen to in the silence of the night.

Yet another curious peculiarity of theirs is, that they look, intently, and with evident interest, at stretches of country lying in front of them, when they find themselves at the top of a hill or of a mountain where they have not previously been. Their eyesight is marvelously sharp, and they detect birds of prey—the only thing in the world which they fear, apart from leopards and servals—at incredible al- [illegible] in the Atlantic Monthly.

Good Detective Work on Part of Chemist

An epidemic of abusive anonymous letters broke out in a small suburban town near Albany recently. The town's chief of police finding he was making no progress in his investigations, enlisted the aid of consulting a chemist interested in curious problems of crime susceptible to scientific detection.

Scrutiny of a hundred or more of the letters convinced the scientist the unknown writer was a middle-aged woman, says Capper's Weekly. All kinds of writing paper were used, but always a sharp pointed steel pen and the same kind of ink.

Dust in the ink indicated an open ink well was used by the writer. At this point the chemist made up a lot of pelets, using a different chemical for each, but every chemical capable of identification if mixed with ink. Then, in the guise of an inspector of electric wiring, the chemist gained access to the houses of all suspects. Whenever he found an open ink-well he dropped a pellet in it.

The next anonymous letter led him to the woman responsible for it. And in a few days she was trapped in the act of sending off another one. That ended the case in a regular Sherlock Holmes style.

Old Income Taxes

There were state income tax laws in colonial days and divers federal income tax laws were enacted by congress during the Civil war time but in 1861 congress made its first attempt to provide a permanent and substantial income-tax law.

The first successful attempt to provide a federal income tax was in 1909, says the Detroit News, when congress passed a law for the purpose of placing a tax against corporations, but which was in fact a tax against the entire net income of corporations amounting to more than $5,000 a year.

This law was succeeded by the 1913 income law and the Sixteenth amendment to the Constitution [illegible] congress to pass income-tax laws as we know them today.

Homer as Historian

For the mere hard purposes of history, the Iliad and the Odyssey are the most effective books which ever were written. We see the hall of Menelaus, we see the garden of Alcinous, we see Nausicaa among her maidens on the shore, we see the yellow monarch sitting with ivory scepter in the market place dealing out genial justice. Could we enter the palace of an old Ionian lord we know what we should see there, we know the words in which he would address us. We could meet Hector as a friend. If we could choose a companion to spend an evening with over a fireside, it would be the man of many counsels, the husband of Penelope.—Froude.

DINOSAUR TRACKS FOUND IN VIRGINIA

Imprints Show Animal Had Stride of 56 Inches.

New York.—How dinosaur tracks were found in Virginia in a slab of red Triassic shale taken from a farm in Aldie, in Loudoun county, is described in a pamphlet just issued by the Smithsonian institution on the activities of its field workers in the last year. The slab, which was obtained by C. G. Gilmore of the National museum and which is now on exhibition at the museum, shows that the animal had a stride of 56 inches.

Mr. Gilmore also conducted excavation work in the Dinosaur National monument, Utah, to obtain for exhibition in the museum a mountable skeleton of one of the large sauropodous dinosaurs. The often fragile bones of these gigantic reptiles are found embedded in a thick sandstone of variable hardness that is tilted up at an angle of 60 degrees and the work of quarrying them out without doing irreparable damage is described as a slow and tedious operation. More than twenty-five tons of material were safely transported, from which it is certain that a good skeleton mount of diplodocus will be obtained, measuring eight feet, with a height of fourteen feet at the hips.

"Visits were made to localities in the United States," says the pamphlet in telling of the field work, "the regions visited included the Canadian Rockies, the Yangtsze valley, several islands of the West Indies, Panama and Central America, Labrador and several countries in Europe.

Studies Solar Radiation.

"Dr. C. G. Abbot, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian institution, gives a comprehensive survey of the work on solar radiation conducted since 1918 by the Astrophysical observatory, of which he is the director. This work, at first restricted to observations of the sun made in the summer and autumn seasons at the observing station at Mount Wilson, is now conducted at two stations situated in two of the most cloudless regions of the world—Mount Harque Hala, Arizona, and Mount Montezuma, Chile—where observations are usually made five times daily throughout the year. The mass of data thus being accumulated will, it is hoped, become the groundwork for study of the relation of the variation of the sun to the variation of the weather, preliminary studies of which already have been made by H. H. Clayton while chief weather forecaster of the Argentine meterological service.

"Mr. Charles H. Hoy, who has conducted biological collecting expeditions for the Smithsonian for several years in Australia and elsewhere, sailed for China at the beginning of the year to collect vertebrates in the Yangtsze valley. Mr. Hoy's expedition was beset with difficulties of various kinds, culminating in a real tragedy. Due to the unsettled condition of China, great delay was encountered in getting the outfit through the custom house in Shanghai, and the prevalence of almost unchecked banditry made travel hazardous and uncertain. After a few weeks' successful collecting in the Yochow district, Mr. Hoy left for a trip through Hunan and Kiangsi, in the course of which his series of accidents began.

Field Worker Dies.

"He had a bad fall, wrenching his back so badly that he was unable to even crawl about for a week. Just as this condition was beginning to mend, he accidentally shot himself in the leg, and though unable to get about, he wrote that he planned to send his men out collecting. However, within a few days a severe case of appendicitis set in, necessitating an operation from which Mr. Hoy never recovered. Mr. Hoy, in spite of his misfortunes, shipped considerable valuable material back to the institution for exhibition.

"Dr. J. Walker Fewkes, chief of the Bureau of American Ethnology, Smithsonian institution, describes the results of a preliminary reconnoissance of the archeological remains in southwestern Florida.

"The first region visited was that of the Ten Thousand islands, which is almost a virgin field for the archeologist, and here were found many mounds and other traces of the prehistoric Indian inhabitants. There are few modern settlements in the region, though one was located at Porpoise point, consisting of several houses and about fifty inhabitants. Life is very simple in this primitive settlement, which is entirely out of touch with the outside world. The houses are mounted on piles like the ancient pile dwellings. A promising series of preliminary excavations was made on Weedon's island, in Tampa bay, with such interesting results that Dr. Fewkes decided to make it the site of more comprehensive investigations. The largest mound in the cluster was probably that on which the chief's house was erected, and it is claimed by Dr. Weedon that De Soto and Narvaez first landed at this mound. If so, it can be identified as the Caiusa town, Ucita. Dr. Fewkes is at present in Florida continuing and expanding his investigations of this archeologically little known region."

Another Charleroi Case!

Time-tested by a Charleroi Resident.

Just another report of sickness and suffering relieved by Doan's Pills. Another Charleroi case that tells of lasting benefit. What can be more convincing? Thousands recommend Doan's for backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, and distressing urinary disorders. Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. They have helped thousands and should help you. A Charleroi case.

Mrs. B. J. White, 130 McKain Ave., gave the following statement December 19, 1918: "I shall never forget how my back pained when I had kidney trouble. I had such dizzy spells and headaches I felt miserable. Mornings I felt lame and stiff. My kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Pills rid me of the trouble."

On March 15, 1922, Mrs. White added: "I have had no occasion to use Doan's since they cured me sometime ago."

BODY FOUND IS THOUGHT THAT OF GREENSBURG MAN

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 18—The body of a middle-aged man found by berry pickers in a ravine near Mountaintop was believed today to be that of John Juroski of Greensburg, Pa.

Police said there was no evidence of foul play and that the man probably lost his way in the mountains and died of exposure. A suitcase full of clothes was found near the body.

Too Much for Him

An officer in one of the Seventh all day long and is always glad to be of service to clients.

"But I wish you would tell me," he said, "what I should have told the woman who came up to my desk this morning. I was rushing to get a statement finished that was already overdue, but I left off and asked her what I could do for her. And in an anxious voice she replied:

"'Please, have you seen in here this morning an elderly lady with heart trouble?'"

Framed Motto Helpful

Real joy of spirit with which to meet the day's journey may be brought through a framed motto that hangs beside the mirror as one dresses in the morning. As we leave the house for the day's business we love to carry with us either a few bars of melody, or a line of a beautiful poem, lilting in the mind. A motto, or a poem, properly framed and hung where it catches the eye often, has carried a message of gayety or courage to many a one who thus remembers its words
